Questions and Answers

Q. What is Oxford House™?
A. Oxford House™ is self-help supportive housing for recovering alcoholics and drug addicts. Each house is chartered by Oxford House, Inc. the non-profit umbrella organization for the network of individual Oxford Houses. Each house follows standardized operations developed through 33 years of Oxford House™ experience.

Q. How do Oxford Houses get started?
A. The World Services Office helps a new house get started and provides support after it is started to keep it on the right track. Outside contributions help fund the cost of the World Services Office but each house is self-supported. Members of churches, synagogues and mosques can become friendly landlords by buying and renting four to five bedroom houses that can be used as Oxford Houses.

Q. What is the cost of getting a new house started?
A. The average one-time technical assistance cost to start a new Oxford House™ is about $40,000. That amount includes money for an on-site, experienced trainer and is generally financed by local contributions or grants.

Q. How much does it cost an individual to live in an Oxford House™?
A. The average weekly cost in 2008 to live in an Oxford House™ is about $100 a week. The range of cost, depending on the expenses of a particular house, is $65 to $145 a week.

Q. How does one get into an Oxford House™?
A. An individual applies to an exiting Oxford House™ and the residents of the house vote whether to accept the new person.

Q. Where are Oxford Houses located?
A. Oxford Houses are located in 42 states and the District of Columbia. Churches can help start new houses by finding or buying suitable houses for groups to rent and arranging to get technical assistance from Oxford House, Inc.

Oxford House, Inc. is the 501(c)(3) non-profit umbrella organization of the national network of individual Oxford Houses.

The primary purpose of Oxford House, Inc. is to establish enough self-run, self-supported recovery houses to provide an opportunity for every recovering individual to learn a clean and sober way of life – forever.

Contributions and grants are used to expand the network of Oxford Houses by providing trained outreach workers to establish new houses and to provide on-going organizational and technical support from a central services office.

This pamphlet “Working With Churches, Synagogues and Mosques” discusses how Oxford Houses can provide the missing link in the treatment protocol to assure recovery without relapse.
Recovering From Alcoholism and Drug Addiction

Alcoholism and drug addiction are chronic and progressive problems. Alcoholics and drug addicts become "hooked" on their drug of choice and physically all cells in their bodies call out for a steady supply of the drug. This physical compulsion causes the mind to trigger any kind of behavior needed to get the next drink of alcohol or other drug "fix." Once addicted, the only "cure" is total abstinence – stopping the use of the alcohol and drugs – forever.

Stopping the use of drugs and alcohol use is difficult but not impossible. Most addicts go through a number of periods where they stop use because they have run out of alcohol or their drug of choice. When an addict stops, he or she feels sick because of withdrawal; i.e., every cell in the body is calling out for the drug and the body shakes, sweats and produces great anxiety. The addict really "feels" he or she is going to die unless the drug of choice is obtained quickly. This is called detoxification and it usually ends within minutes after the addict has ingested his or her drug of choice. However, for a fortunate few – who can go three to seven days without taking their drug of choice – detoxification is the beginning of a whole new life.

Short-term custody – in a hospital setting or a supervised detoxification facility – is the usual way to stop an addict's compulsive use of alcohol and drugs. Treatment can educate and motivate an individual to stay stopped and Oxford Houses can help to make treatment successful.

The initial one-time technical assistance cost to get a new Oxford House started is about $40,000 [finding a suitable house to rent, recruiting initial residents, teaching the system of operation to the residents and recovery community]. Once started, a small annual service charge keeps existing houses on track. The residents pay the operating costs of the recovery homes and operations are maintained by following the disciplined, democratic, self-help system of operation used for more than 30 years.

The nation's churches, synagogues and mosques are first responders to individuals with or affected by alcoholism and/or drug addiction. Organized investment in suitable houses to rent to groups of recovering individuals to start an Oxford House is a win-win proposition. The odds for recovery without relapse are improved and the income from the rental property can be put to good use for other congregate benefits.

Staying Stopped

Throughout its existence, Oxford House has combined the concepts of self-support and responsibility with a fellowship having the common purpose of continued and comfortable sobriety.

Behavior change is never easy and it is especially difficult for the individual who is recovering from addiction. While the physical craving for drugs ends within a few days, the mind tries to trick an individual into returning to alcohol or drug use. When you think about it, the mind is doing what comes naturally -- forgetting pain and remembering pleasure.

Professionals speak often of "denial" when dealing with recovering addicts. The addict really does not believe that alcohol and drug use produces harm. The addict "remembers" the good feeling that came from the alcohol or drugs and wants to recapture it. At the same time, he or she forgets the violence, irrational behavior (fights, loss of job and family), and physical withdrawal that makes one feel sick (hang-overs).

Treatment plus Alcoholics Anonymous (AA) and Narcotics Anonymous (NA) -- twelve-step self-help programs -- have helped millions of recovering addicts to change their behavior to adopt lifelong abstinence. Unfortunately, many recovering individuals need more support than AA and NA alone. Oxford Houses provide the additional support and the time to learn new behavior. Over 80% of those who live in an Oxford House™ stay clean and sober.

Many churches and places of worship are natural homes for AA and NA meetings. Every church presents a front-line opportunity for intervening to help and alcoholic or drug addict kick his or her addiction. Any addict can be detoxified, but relapse is often the likely outcome -- unless the recovering addict has a place to live supportive of the behavior change necessary for long-term comfortable sobriety.

How Churches Can Help

Oxford Houses are rented family houses where groups of recovering individuals rent to live together in an environment supportive of recovery from addiction. Each house is self-run and self-supported following a standardized system of democratic operation. Each group – or religious community on behalf of a group – obtains a charter from Oxford House, Inc., the umbrella organization for the national network of individual Oxford Houses. Get material at www.oxfordhouse.org

An Oxford House charter has three basic requirements for the group:

- it must be democratically self-run,
- it must be financially self-supported, and
- it must expel any resident who returns to using alcohol or drugs.

The standardized disciplined system of operations has evolved from the 31-year history of Oxford House and permits replication of Oxford Houses throughout the country. All Oxford Houses are tied together to assure mutual support and quality control.

The machinery – including in many states availability of start-up loans of up to $4,000 for a group to rent a single-family house in a good neighborhood – is in place, but help is needed in finding the house and getting trained individuals to help make it work. Religious congregations can become friendly landlords. Members of congregations can reach out and help transform the revolving door between sobriety and alcohol or drug abuse into an opportunity for recovering individuals to gain comfortable sobriety without relapse – forever.
